Earlier this week, myself and NTU’s Director of Research Michael Maillaro met with the district as part of the Reopening Taskforce. These meetings will be continuing weekly to make recommendations and help finalize the district’s reopening plans. A lot of the work will need to be done at a school-level, so expect more frequent updates after principals return on August 3. Each school, student, and staff member has individual needs, and flexibility while following CDC, state and district guidelines will be key.

The district is currently identifying students and staff who are able and willing to attend school physically next year. At the same time, NJDOE is working on ensuring all staff and students have access to remote learning platforms as that is what the vast majority will be utilizing.

For those staff and students who are physically in school, the district has solid screening and sanitizing plans in place. These procedures are already being used to great success at our Pilot Summer programs. The biggest problems moving forward will be scale and consistency.

The NTU also continues to work with our specialized populations who are going to present additional challenges. Pre-K teachers and Child Study Team members have given us a lot of terrific feedback, and we will continue to advocate to make sure these issues all addressed.

There is a still a lot of work to do, but at the forefront of every conversation is “what can be done to best ensure the safety of our students and staff?” There is NOTHING more important. We will be sending out more information early next week.

As we move into the new school year, distance learning is going to be the way the vast majority of our students and staff are interacting. The NTU’s Distance Educational Program run by NTU VP Silvia Pereira have been a huge success this summer. It’s been standing room only the last few sessions. The NTU will continue to offer online workshops on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m on Distance Educational Programs. If you are interested in signing up, check the bottom of this section

If you are unable to attend the live workshops, then please join the Distance Educational Program Google Classroom (class code: lq4jzft) where Silvia posts videos and resources to help guide you with the various platforms. There are a lot of great links and material posted every week. You will need to log on using your NPS email address.

2020-2021 Pay Days

NEWARK TEACHERS UNION UPDATE
July 24, 2020

As per NBOE, these are the pay dates for the 2020-2021 school year. Unless indicated, all pay checks are for ten (10) days.

Our salary is spread out across not just the 188 working days, but also all paid days off. For this year, that is 215 days for ten month employees in the NTU Bargaining Unit.

Also, all full-time staff are paid to the day, not a week behind. The “pay period” on top of staff’s check often creates confusion about that.
